

Special Votes Are to Be Awarded Contestants

Advocate Makes Unusual Proposition Whereby Competitors May Gain Many Extra Ballots in $25,000 Contest.

ANOTHER SPECIAL OFFER.

"To-day and to-morrow will be marked by many special features at the contest home," said The Advocate early this morning, just before leaving the Thirteenth Street building for his residence. Both days will be gala ones. The public is invited to enjoy the programmes which have been arranged. Every contestant who visits the building will be given 100 votes. Every visitor not a contestant will be given 50 votes to cast for his favorite contestant. Every contestant should take advantage of these offers.

"There will be orchestra music and player piano demonstrations. Ice cream will be served and samples will be given away. A good time is insured every one who attends. The awards on display are matchless, and are worth inspecting carefully."

The public to-day and to-morrow will be offered by The Advocate a special voting proposition in connection with The Washington Herald's $25,000 contest.

Every contestant who visits the contest home at 711 Thirteenth Street Northwest to-day and to-morrow will be given 100 votes upon registering. Each person not a contestant who calls at the building will be given fifty votes to cast for his favorite contestant.

This special offer lasts the two days. It has been made by The Advocate as the result of numerous requests from contestants who complained that they had been unable for various reasons to visit the contest home during the four opening days when the special offer was in effect. The offer is now continued and the contestants were persistent that it was finally decided to renew the offer for two days only. These days are at hand-to-day and to-morrow.

Many Attractive Features.

There will be many other attractive features in addition to the special voting proposition. Those who call at the building will be served velvet ice cream. Samples of various kinds will be given away. Both days music will be furnished by an orchestra of ability. Demonstrations of the $25,000 player pianos which are to be given away as awards also will be on the programme.

The public cannot afford to let these opportunities slip by without taking advantage of them. Contestants should make the most of these offers. Wise contestants will visit the contest building both days. They will call on their friends and urge them to visit the building and cast their votes for them. This is a rare opportunity to obtain large numbers of votes. Note that the race is getting far advanced, every vote counts. A hundred voter count proportionally. Here is a chance to get 200 votes with the expenditure of a bit of energy. And there is the possibility of obtaining those extra votes by easily eliciting the help of friends. What contestant is there who has not at least ten reliable friends? And what industrious contestant is there who cannot succeed in urging these friends to visit the contest home to-day and to-morrow? Every friend is good for fifty votes. Ten friends mean 500 votes. Ten friends for two days will bring 1,000 votes.

Public is Invited.

The public is invited to visit the building. Even those not directly interested in the contest will gain much by calling at the building. They will have a good time, will get something for nothing in the way of samples and refreshments, and hear good music, and will see a large collection of matchless articles which are to be given away to the winners of the contest awards. These awards occupy the entire second and third floors. Among them are pianos, desks, dining-room sets, parlor suites, brass beds, china closets, sectional bookcases, bicycles, lace curtains, statuary, jewelry, trunks, traveling bags, suit cases, sachets, and scores of other things too numerous to mention. To-day is the standing of the contestants. Contests should be ready to show their position in the list. Those at the top should work even harder so that they may put a greater distance between them and their nearest competitors. Those who are near the end of the list should take hope. There is still a chance for the contestants at the foot of the list to spur ahead and win. They should be on an equal footing in the contest. Every one has an equal chance. Those whose prospects look most unfavorable can win if they but have the spirit.

The relative standing of the contestants by contest districts is as follows, those with the highest number of votes being placed at the head of the list:
